

FREE WOOL STANDS
IN THE TARIFF BILLDEMOCRATS OF THE FINANCE COMMITTEE REPORT.

They Hand the Measure as They Have Shaped it Over to Their Fellow Committee Men for Action—How Sugar Fares—Coining of Seigniorage Under Discussion.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The tariff bill was at last submitted to the senate finance committee today. Raw wool is left on the free list. Senator Voorhees yesterday reiterated the statement made on the floor of the senate that the finance committee would be given a few days to consider the bill as a whole and that after it should be reported to the senate at least a week of additional time would be permitted for the preparation of speeches before an effort would be made to have the bill taken up in the senate.

The work on the tariff was brought to a close by placing the sugar figure at 1 cent a pound or about that figure on sugar showing 80 degrees fineness, according to the polariscope test, and increasing the amount gradually with the increase of the purity of the article. It is known that the increase does not reach 1½ cents, but it can not be stated definitely just what it is.

It is learned from another source that the whisky tax is probably increased to $1.10 a gallon and the bonded period extended to five years. This is done, it is said, to accommodate the bourbon and rye distillers, who have pleaded for an extension of the bonded period regardless of the amount of the tax, and the tax is increased in order to grant the extension of time without decreasing the immediate revenue to be derived from it.

PENSION APPROPRIATION PASSED.

The Measure Carries $151,000,000—Coining of Seigniorage Under Discussion.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—After five days of debate the pension appropriation bill, carrying $151,000,000, was passed yesterday afternoon without division. At the opening of the session of the house the senate joint resolution for the appointment of a commission to represent the United States at the Antwerp International exposition was agreed to.

Two resolutions of inquiry touching proposals for postal stamps were adopted, and the house then went into committee of the whole and the debate on the pension appropriation bill was resumed.

Mr. Morse (rep., Mass.) agreed with Mr. Sickles that the commissioner of pensions was guilty not only of bad law, but of bad manners; and Mr. Johnson (rep., Ind.) made a vigorous onslaught on the policy of Secretary Smith and Commissioner Lochren.

Mr. Springer (dem., Ill.) defended the policy of the pension office and declared it had been made a political machine by the republican party.

Mr. Marsh of Illinois replied to Mr. Springer.

O'Neil (dem., Mass.), who was in charge of the bill, closed the debate.

At 3 o'clock the general debate closed under the agreement reached Tuesday, and the bill was read for amendment and debate under the five-minute rule.

Mr. Grosvenor (rep., Ohio) offered an amendment to increase the appropriation for pensions from $150,000,000 to $165,000,000, which was defeated without division.

Gen. Henderson (rep., Iowa), who has been ill for some time, next got the floor. He made a most eloquent speech in favor of liberal pensions.

Mr. Pickler of South Dakota offered an amendment to make the reports of the examining surgeons open to the inspection of the attorneys and applicants. It was agreed to.

Mr. Grow of Pennsylvania offered the last amendment providing that no pension on account of disability in the service should be less than $12 per month. With this amendment as a text he made a brief speech, his first since his return to the house, which he left thirty years ago as speaker. The bill was then reported to the house and passed without division, and the house adjourned.

BRITISH AT BLUEFIELDS.

Minister Baker Urges That a United States Vessel Be Sent There.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The department of state has received the first official information of the operations of the British naval forces at Bluefields, near the mouth of the Nicaragua canal. United States Minister Baker at Managua says that the United States consul at San Juan del Norte, Mr. Braida, telegraphs that soldiers from the British warship Cleopatra have been landed at Bluefields and strongly urges that a United States naval vessel be sent there at once. There is no explanation of the reason for the landing of the British forces.

Seigniorage in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—In the senate yesterday Senator Sherman moved that the bill on seigniorage be referred to the committee on finance. This precipitated a vigorous discussion, in which Senator Sherman advocated his motion and Senators Hill and Cockrell opposed the reference.

The senate on motion of Mr. Gibson of Maryland, passed the house bill appropriating $15,000 for the rescue of the armament and wreck of the United States ship Kearsarge.

At 2 o'clock the senate—by a vote of 4 yeas to 50 nays—declined to refer the Bland bill. Senators Palmer and Vilas were the only democrats voting yea. The four republicans were Sherman, Morrill, Gallinger and Davis. Cullom was paired with Gray, otherwise he would have voted nay.

Then Mr. Harris of Tennessee moved to take up the seigniorage bill and make it the special order of business, which was agreed to.

Mr. Allison, who was absent while all these events were occurring, learning that the bill had come near to passing during his absence, moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was ordered to be read the third time and engrossed, because, he said, he wanted to offer some amendments.

Mr. Harris replied that he should object to the bill going back to the amendment stage.

Then the bill went over and the senate adjourned after an executive session.

Anti-Option Bill Hearing.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Col. Abner Taylor of Chicago appeared before the Hatch committee to-day and told the members about dealing on the board of trade. The hearing, the last for the opponents of the measure, began with a speech by J. B. Raymond in behalf of the Detroit board of trade, in which he said if the committee would eliminate the word "futures" from the bill no board of trade or produce or cotton exchange would object to it. D. B. Smith, of the Toledo board, followed with the declaration that "no congressional legislation to suppress option dealing would, in the opinion of the great grain-dealing associations of the country, be too severe." Then Arthur Orr, representing the Chicago board of trade, made his address.

The hearing closed and the committee went into executive session. The friends of the bill will be heard either to-day or next week, and will probably have three days. Col. Hatch proposes to modify his bill somewhat.

New Constitution for Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The President yesterday sent to congress the latest correspondence in relation to Hawaii, being three letters with inclosures from Minister Willis, covering the period from Feb. 10 to Feb. 15, inclusive. The important feature of the correspondence is a statement that steps have been taken to provide for a new constitution and a new form of government for Hawaii.

Would Increase Pensions.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Senator Martin of Kansas has introduced in the senate a general pension bill, which increases to $12 a month the pension of every person now on the rolls at $8 a month on account of services in the Mexican war, including the widows of all soldiers who served in that war.

TRAIN SWEEP AWAY.

Landslide Carries a Fort Wayne Train Into the Beaver River.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—While engine 277 and five cars on the Pittsburgh, Youngstown & Ashtabula branch of the Fort Wayne road were passing Kenwood, thirty miles west of here, at 3 o'clock this morning a heavy landslide came down the hill and swept the train into the Beaver river. The trainmen narrowly escaped death, but all got off with injuries of a more or less serious nature. Their names were:

ENGINEER M. HUBBARD.

FIREMAN GEORGE JONES.

BRAKEMAN THOMAS REED.

The slide covered the tracks with hundreds of tons of earth and delayed traffic for several hours.

Ice Out of the Platte and Other Rivers.

OMAHA, Neb., March 8.—The ice has gone out of the Platte and other western rivers and no damage has been done. Last year when the ice went out it cost the railroads in Nebraska $200,000 to repair the damage, the Union Pacific alone suffering nearly $50,000 damage. It will be a year Friday since the ice went out of the Platte, sweeping away the Columbus and other bridges, forming gorges, and inundating thousands of acres.

Three Suspects Are Caught.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 8.—Jim French and Otto and Herman Sasse were given into the custody of the United States marshal by the city authorities and were arraigned before Commissioner Crawford on the charge of having robbed the postoffice at Desoto, Mo., last Saturday night. The cases were laid over until Wednesday, March 14. The prisoners were committed to jail in default of $2,000 bail to await the hearing.

Farmer Cremated in His Barn.

COLDWATER, Mich., March 8.—N. S. Nixon, a Batavia township farmer, was cremated yesterday in the ruins of his big grain barn. It was not until the building was nearly burned to the ground that Mr. Nixon was missed. Forty sheep, four horses and other stock were burned. Nixon leaves a widow and several children in poor circumstances.

They Will Use Dynamite.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., March 8.—The entire coal belt of West Virginia is agitated over the squatters' war in Logan county, and hostilities are expected. The squatters are organized, and, having a large supply of dynamite in addition to their rifles, declare they will blow up the fire camp which the deputy marshals maintain on the contested land.

GLADSTONE BETTER
THIS AFTERNOON.DOCTORS REPORT THE AGED
PATIENT STRONGER.

He Suffered a Severe Chill But Considered His Indisposition of So Trifling a Nature That He Objected to Having Medical Attention—Prince of Wales' Cutter Safe.

LONDON, March 8.—Mr. Gladstone is somewhat improved today. His illness results from a severe chill. In spite of his desire that a physician should not be summoned, claiming that his indisposition was only a slight matter, a doctor was summoned and Mr. Gladstone was put under treatment. Later his condition was such that another physician was summoned to attend him and one of the physicians in attendance upon the distinguished patient gave a statement to the newspapers which indicates that Mr. Gladstone's illness is undoubtedly serious.

Little is talked about in public places except Mr. Gladstone and his condition. His name is in everybody's mouth, and nothing could better testify to the affections and respect of the people than the overwhelming interest taken in his well-being at this moment, when he is sorely stricken and lying on a sick bed. The grandest character in modern English history is felt to be passing through a dangerous crisis.

DYNAMITE SCARE IN LONDON.

Suspicious Box Is Found at Bow Street Police Station.

LONDON, March 8.—The police of London in general and of the "E" division in particular are suffering from another dynamite scare. A small tin box, supposed to contain dynamite, was found last night upon one of the window-sills of the historical Bow street police station almost fronting the more famous Bow street police court. The policeman who discovered the box immediately gave the alarm.

The inspectors and superintendent were called and the box was taken to the extremity of the yard of the police station, where it was watered for a long time before anybody cared to subject it to a closer examination. The box was blackened with smoke and fire from burned fuse and there is doubt as to whether an attempt of a very weak nature was made to cause an explosion or whether some practical joker has been giving the London police another bad scare.

FIRED ON THE BRITISH.

Encounter Between Portuguese and Blue Jackets in Africa.

PORT NATAL, March 8.—The Portuguese having obstructed the progress of the British parties engaged in constructing the telegraph line between the British sphere and Tete, on the Zambesi, Lieutenant and Commander George S. Q. Carr, in command of the St. John's gunboat Mosquito, eighty-two tons, landed a party of blue-jackets from the river gunboat referred to, in order to protect the men at work upon the telegraph line. The Portuguese fired upon the British landing party and the fire was returned.

The latest advices from the scene of the encounter say that Gov. Quillman, the Portuguese official in charge of the district within the Portuguese boundaries, has been summoned to the spot where the conflict took place and he is said to be on his way there with two Portuguese gunboats and a number of troops.

A New Pacific Cable.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, March 8.—The delegates who have been attending the conference called to discuss the intercolonial postal and telegraph service have passed a resolution in favor of a Pacific cable to America, the route to be via Samoa, Fanning island and Honolulu to Vancouver. It is said that this route is likely to be supported by the governments of the United States, Germany, France, Great Britain and Canada.

POLLARD CASE NOW
FAIRLY IN COURT.SUIT AGAINST BRECKINRIDGE
AT LAST BEGINS.

Choosing of Jurors Occupied the Session of Court To-day, Four Men Being Picked—Senator Blackburn Denies That He Offered $3,500 to Miss Pollard's Attorneys.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Breckinridge-Pollard case was commenced this morning. Four jurors were selected, and court then adjourned until to-morrow. Senator Blackburn not only denies that he offered Miss Pollard's attorneys $3,500 as a compromise, but says he is indignant that his name should have been used in such connection. At Lexington fourteen witnesses were examined yesterday, among them William Shope, whose brother was connected with the case by Dr. Lewis' testimony at Danville. Three other witnesses conclude the case to-day.

DAY'S NEWS IN THE LABOR WORLD

Detective Tells of the Plan To Murder Wyant—West Virginia Mining Trouble.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 8.—The details of the plan for killing Wyant and murdering the military were brought to light by a Pinkerton detective who was employed by Wyant. He was ostensibly a mule driver and appeared to be unfriendly to his employer. He at once joined in the proposed strike and when an attack was made on Wyant's tipple he was with the attacking party. The detective swears the plot was for Kinney to shoot through his pocket at Wyant if he refused to go to Montgomery to be tried. If he consented to be tried there it was then that the plot to kill Wyant and his guards by dynamite was to be put into execution. Seven more rioters have been taken to Fayetteville. The authorities do not regard the trouble as over as another Gatling gun has been taken to Eagle.

Three hundred miners passed Eagle yesterday, going east, and there was a meeting last night. These meetings are all secret and back in the mountains away from the railroad. The following gas coal mines resumed yesterday: Diamond, Forest Hill, Chesapeake, Cannelton, Powellton, Digley, and the Stevens mines at Acme.

STREET CAR PEOPLE STUBBORN.

Strikers, However, Hold the Fort and Prevent Movement of Trains.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, March 8.—No further rioting occurred yesterday along the lines of the Youngstown street railway, and crowds of expectant people thronged the sidewalks and waited for further scenes of disorder. In the afternoon Manager Anderson took a firm stand on the declaration that he would not recognize the union, despite all efforts of citizens to aid in securing a settlement. A committee of members of the board of commerce met with Manager Anderson, the executive committee of the strikers, and President Malone of Columbus of the National Board of Street Railway Men's organization. No agreement could be reached. The manager left the conference declaring that the employees would go back to work as individuals and at a 10 per cent reduction, something he had not discussed before. The strikers are willing to submit their case to the state board of arbitration and return to work while a decision is being reached, but the proposition is not regarded with favor by the company.

FOR A DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

House Committee Discusses the Doolittle Bill—Opposed by Workingmen.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Several representatives of labor organizations were present at the meeting of the house committee on labor yesterday when the bill introduced by Representative Doolittle of Washington to make an executive department of the bureau of labor was considered. Representative Doolittle believed the bureau of labor was unknown to most of the people and its status should be raised to that of an executive department in order that its importance might be realized.

Representative Phillips of Pennsylvania advocated a forum for the settlement of labor troubles which could be appealed to voluntarily, but he denied that such a tribunal could enforce its judgments by compelling men to work on terms unsatisfactory to them. It is said the plan has few supporters among the laboring people.

Decision Is Against the Strikers.

DAN COUGHLIN IS ACQUITTED.JURY WAS OUT BUT A VERY SHORT TIME.

First Verdict Stood Ten for Acquittal and Two for Conviction—Case Has Cost More than $25,000, and Taken About Four Months.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The jury in the Coughlin case returned a verdict of acquittal of the murder of Dr. Cronin

DAN. COUGHLIN,

Twice Tried in Chicago for Murder of Dr. Cronin.

at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The first ballot stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction. The jury went out about 11 o'clock.

The case has occupied more than four months and has cost the county more than $25,000. The closing days were full of excitement. If Judge Tutthill's court room were twice its size it could not have accommodated half the people who were desirous of being present yesterday at what was practically the last day's proceedings in the Coughlin trial. Every seat in the court room was occupied when Judge Tutthill took his place on the bench and Mr. Rottum resumed his speech.

Mr. Coughlin's closing speech was remarkably strong. Without the least trace of heat or passion and without any display of feeling against the prisoner, he analyzed the evidence in the case. His argument was cool, logical and convincing. His speech taken as a whole was one of the fairest arguments ever heard in a Cook county court. From certain facts he drew inferences different from those made by the defense, but this was necessary to support the theory of the state.

BOSTON ALDERMAN SHOT.

Mr. Lomasney Made a Target for James Noonan's Revolver.

BOSTON, Mass., March 8.—James Noonan fired several shots at Alderman Lomasney in the city hall at 12:40. One shot took effect, but it is not yet known how serious the wound is.

Alderman Lomasney has been taken to the city hospital. One of the shots fired went through Councilman Boyle's clothing, but did little damage.

The assailant was arrested by one of the policemen stationed in the hall and was taken to the station house. The prisoner is tall, of slim build and has a slight mustache. His appearance is that of a laborer. He has been seen hanging around the hall for several days.

Think He Is Crazy.

STOUT CITY, Iowa, March 8.—J. C. Allen, a candidate on the silver party ticket for mayor, who predicted his own election all along and only received thirty-four votes in the city has filed a contest in which were unmistakable signs of an unbalanced mind. He also made threats against Mayor-Elect Fletcher. He was promptly taken in custody by the insanity commissioners.

NO CHANGE IN JUDGES.

It was hoped that the judicial contest in this district could be kept out of politics but this seems impossible. The same democratic managers who have had charge of campaigns in Rock county for years are entering actively into Mr. Smith's canvass and are urging his election solely on the ground of party policy. This argument they use with democrats. When approaching republicans the "non partisan" plea is brought forth. The idea seems to be that by getting out a full democratic vote Mr. Smith can be elected. Only a small proportion of voters usually pay any attention to a judicial ticket. The active but quiet democratic canvass is expected to insure that republicans furnish most of the stay-at-homes this year.

The district cannot afford to have the scale turned by any such device. The campaign has progressed far enough to show that the people here no less than in Green and Jefferson counties are thoroughly satisfied with Judge Bennett's work. It is a significant comment on his learning and judicial fairness that the percentage of cases reversed by the supreme court is lower in his circuit than in any other in Wisconsin. As for his age nobody who sees him leaving the court after a hard day's work, sturdy, alert, straight as a young pine tree, will question that there are many years of valuable service before him. As a lawyer remarked after hearing his able review of law and evidence in the Ashton case: "Not one of the attorneys who say that Judge Bennett is too old could have written such a charge as that."

If experience counts in any position it must in that of judge. By all ordinary standards Judge Bennett has just reached the point where his value to the people of his circuit is greatest. Very short sighted would be the policy that called for a change. Only through the failure of Rock county people to vote will such a change be possible.

$300,000,000 has been lost by the farmers by the fall in the price of wheat, corn, oats and potatoes during the past twelve months. Rock county shared in the loss and democratic votes in this county will be scarce hereafter.

Speaker Crisp would unquestionably be grateful for a recipe that would keep a quorum on the floor of the house without counting non-voters, but it is not probable that he will ever have one.

The spectacle of a campaign carried on against the British House of Lords by the liberal party under a leadership of a member of the House of Lords promises to be interesting, and may be instructive.

If anyone doubts the possibility of the tail wagging the dog they should be referred to the feat of the ten democratic senators who have compelled thirty-four democratic senators to give in to them.

The administration is doing its level best to make up a considerable part of that estimated deficiency of $78,000,000 by denying applications for pensions that should be granted.

The country rejoices to learn that Congressman Wilson is out of danger, just as it rejoices because the tariff bill with which his name is connected is in danger.

HON. EX-SPEAKER NOYES.

OUR STATESMAN CURED BY DR. GREENE'S NERVURA.

The Great Senator and Representative Recommends Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy to the Weak, Nervous and Ailing. It is the Best Spring Medicine to Take.

PROBABLY more depends upon the character of the recommendation than on anything else. If a person you personally know tells you that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will cure you because it cured him, you take his word. Here is Massachusetts' greatest and foremost statesman whom all our readers know, Hon. Ex-Speaker Noyes, of the house of representatives, who tells you what this wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, has done for him, and advises you to take it and get well, if you are sick, weak, nervous, sleepless, debilitated or run down in health. He assures you that it cured him and he is positive that it will cure you.

HON. EX-SPEAKER CHARLES J. NOYES.

The newspapers say of Hon. Mr. Noyes: "No citizen of Boston stands higher in public estimation than he. A lawyer of the greatest eminence and highest ability, he is a born leader of men. In public life for nearly a century, he is a representative citizen, one of the most popular and best known men in the United States."

"He was elected a senator and was eight times returned to the house of representatives. It shows in what high esteem he is held by the people that he was five different years elected speaker of the house of representatives. Governor Long made him a Justice, knowing that he is of unquestionable integrity, superior ability and great conscientiousness. A man of majestic brain, he is a great statesman and has few equals as an orator. He was at one time a candidate for lieutenant governor and he nominated Alger for president in the national convention."

Such is the eminence and standing of the gentleman who writes the following for the public welfare:

"After having used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and during my convalescence from a severe rheumatism, and experiencing its very beneficial results in accelerating my recovery, by imparting a healthy tone to my whole over-wrought nervous system, I write that others needing a like restorative may have a like advantage."

"It seems to me nothing could have contributed so much to invigorate and recreate as it were, my severely taxed nerves and debilitated vitality as did this excellent remedy. And to all needing some invigorating and permanent restorative to mind and body over-burdened in business or other cases, I desire to offer my testimony in behalf of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy as the very best medicine within my knowledge or observation. I am willing that the best possible use should be made of this note to bring the matter to the attention of others suffering as I was."

CHARLES J. NOYES.
Equitable Building, Boston, Mass.
Hon. Ex-Speaker Noyes is and always will be a boon to his fellow men, and in thus giving his advice to the suffering, and the weight of his high standing and eminent reputation to his endorsement of the wonderful curative virtues of the great medical discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, he is proving himself a benefactor to those who are sick, weak, nervous and ailing. It is a fact that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cures. The sick need it to make them well. Those who do not call themselves exactly sick, but who are ailing, out of order and do not feel just right, should take it, for it will put them in perfect health and strength. Everybody needs it now when a spring medicine is necessary to maintain health. It is the best spring medicine possible to take.

Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th Street, New York City, its discoverer, is our most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

SHE LOVES THE OCEAN.

Helen Keller, Deaf, Dumb and Blind, a Descriptive Writer.

The resources and possibilities of modern methods of intellectual training have found another marvelous instance in the person of Helen Keller, an instance fully as wonderful and conclusive as that furnished by the famous Laura Bridgman. The interesting child is now about 14 years old. She became deaf, dumb and blind in infancy, and yet she has been educated up to such a point that she was enabled, at 12 years of age, to write, by means of her own typewriter, a sketch of her having been led forth from darkness into the light of knowledge. Her sketch is beautifully composed, and is said by the editor of the paper in which the composition has been published to have been free from errors of spelling and the like.

In view of the child's dreadful afflictions, the mere mechanical work of the achievement is remarkable enough; but when to this is added a distinctly fine quality of literary skill, the mental attainments acquired by the girl are quite amazing. We can not resist

HELEN KELLER.

A Perfect Cure

Mr. Joel H. Austin is a man very highly esteemed by all who know him. He is now pension attorney at Goshen, Ind., and was for 20 years a Baptist missionary minister. He says: "I suffered years with swelling of my limbs, at times very painful, especially at night. I could not sleep. I have taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and for weeks there has not been any swelling of my feet and limbs. I have also suffered for years with catarrh in the head, which was working down into my lungs. Since trying Hood's Sarsaparilla the pain in my head has stopped and I am positive of a perfect cure."

S. L. JAMES STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

SUFFERED A STROKE WHILE AT A CHURCH SUPPER.

As He Chatted With Friends in the All Souls Parlor He Suddenly Falttered and Was Found to Be in Serious Condition—Physicians Are Alarmed.

Treasurer S. L. James, of the Rock county fair association, is confined to his home, 201 South Jackson street helpless from a severe stroke of paralysis.

Mr. James, while not being in robust health, was out all day yesterday as usual. He went to All Souls church and took supper with a number of friends and agreed to pass the evening with E. B. Heimstreet. Before leaving the table Mr. Heimstreet noticed that Mr. James was acting unusually and went to him. He soon discovered the cause and at once made arrangements to take him home, where he was attended by Dr. Robinson. Mr. James appears to have no control over his limbs, and he is unable to talk except in disconnected words. Mr. Heimstreet remained with him all night. Today the sick man's condition is unchanged, and it is feared his case is more serious than first supposed, he being so well advanced in years.

HOW THE NIGHT WAS MADE GLAD.

Several Entertainments About Town Last Evening—Two Church Suppers.

Two church suppers that vied with each other in attractiveness were served last night. Baked beans and brown bread reigned at the Congregational church, where visitors were regaled with an old-fashioned New England spread. At All Souls church an encouraging number testified to the merits of latter day viands including such vanities as salads, lemon jelly and fanciful cakes.

Members of W. H. Sargent Relief Corps, No. 21, entertained their friends in different fashion. They let them dance to Johnny Smith's music and enjoy light refreshments at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Mattie Parker and Miss Lou Fenton gave select readings. Mrs. Parker gave "The Smack at School," and Miss Fenton "In the Catacombs," both being compelled to respond to recalls.

JUNIOR ENDEAVORS TO ORGANIZE

This society will organize on Easter Sunday, March 25, at the Presbyterian church at 4 o'clock. A special program has been arranged. All children and their parents are invited to be present.

RANDALL HAS BEEN PROMOTED.

He Is Now Lieutenant Colonel With a Salary of $3,500 a Year.

Major George M. Randall's promotion was announced in Washington yesterday. It raises him from major of the Fourth Infantry to lieutenant colonel of the Eighth with headquarters in Wyoming. He will not be expected to join his regiment for some little time. In future his salary will be about $3,500 a year.

Millinery and Ladies Furnishing Goods.

Mrs. Woodstock, the leading milliner and her head trimmer, Miss Russell, have gone to purchase spring millinery for Janesville. Mrs. Woodstock's business has grown to such an extent that she is compelled to have more room, consequently she has had the basement of her store room fitted up in elegant shape, a front entrance made from the street, and she will stock it with one of the handsomest stocks of ladies furnishing goods of all kinds ever shown in any city. While east she will purchase this stock which will consist of a full line of ladies goods, infants and childrens wear, fancy linens and fancy ornaments for the ladies, in fact Mrs. Woodstock's place will present a veritable ladies bazaar this spring. In connection with the above line she will put in a much larger and finer stock of millinery than ever before. She has engaged Willard Robinson, a thorough furnishing goods man, who will have charge of her ladies furnishing department. Watch these columns for Mrs. Woodstock's grand spring opening which will occur as soon as she returns from the eastern markets.

"The Train Wreckers."

The Rice Wolford & Sheridan Company who open a three night engagement at the Myers Grand tonight is the only company on the road playing at popular prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents that produce scenic melo-dramas. The reason there is no other company in this field is that it is very expensive not only for the scenery but royalty for the plays and the expense of carrying men to handle the scenery. "The Train Wreckers" is a play of the same class as "Fast Mail," "Pay Train," etc., with realistic railroad effects, the explosion of the bridge, the railroad office, New York illuminated, etc. All scenery used is brand new and attractive and a first class performance is assured.

WHY NOT ALL DANCE AT THE ASYLUM?

BIG DEDICATORY PARTY IS THE SUGGESTION.

New Buildings Will Be Ready Early Next Month as Contractor Nowlan Has Only a Little More Carpenter Work to Do—Board Committee Make an Inspection.

The building committee of the county insane asylum visited the new building yesterday afternoon. Contractor Nowlan will complete his contract in a few days, when the entire work will be ready for acceptance by the county.

"It is the intention to occupy the new building early in April," said County Clerk McIntyre this afternoon. "I think the moving will begin the first of April if the weather and the roads are all right."

It seems no more than proper that there be a "house warming" at the handsome new buildings before they are put into use. Four hundred people attended a dedication party at the new Oshkosh asylum a few weeks ago. A similar affair might well be given here, the county being at no expense in the matter and all the responsibility resting on an independent committee.

STOLE HENS BY THE WHOLESALE

George W. Beneke Not Content To Ravage Near-By Chicken Coops.

George W. Beneke's hen case this morning drew a crowd. Beneke is charged with stealing chickens, the property of J. A. Decker, Milton avenue. A number of witnesses were sworn on the part of the state, nearly all of whom testified to having chickens stolen, and afterwards finding some of the fowls in Beneke's possession or at his home. Beneke, it appears, had a horse and wagon, and his operations were not confined to his close neighbors' hen coops, but he would drive some distance to make big hauls in the case of the Decker henry.

The examination was concluded this afternoon and the court held Beneke for trial on March 15. In default of $450 bail, the defendant was sent down to Sheriff Bear's keeping.

HEALTH OFFICER SAYS EVERYTHING IS LOVELY.

This Winter has Been a Very Easy One as Far as Epidemics Were Concerned—Dr. Robinson Says all Fear of Small Pox Passed Long Ago.

FREE WOOL STANDS
IN THE TARIFF BILLDEMOCRATS OF THE FINANCE
COMMITTEE REPORT.

They Hand the Measure as They Have Shaped it Over to Their Fellow Committee Men for Action—How Sugar Fares—Coining of Seigniorage Under Discussion.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The tariff bill was at last submitted to the senate finance committee today. Raw wool is left on the free list. Senator Voorhees yesterday reiterated the statement made on the floor of the senate that the finance committee would be given a few days to consider the bill as a whole and that after it should be reported to the senate at least a week of additional time would be permitted for the preparation of speeches before an effort would be made to have the bill taken up in the senate.

The work on the tariff was brought to a close by placing the sugar figure at 1 cent a pound or about that figure on sugar showing 80 degrees fineness, according to the polariscopic test, and increasing the amount gradually with the increase of the purity of the article. It is known that the increase does not reach 1½ cents, but it can not be stated definitely just what it is. It is learned from another source that the whisky tax is probably increased to $1.10 a gallon and the bonded period extended to five years. This is done, it is said, to accommodate the bourbon and rye distillers, who have pleaded for an extension of the bonded period regardless of the amount of the tax, and the tax is increased in order to grant the extension of time without decreasing the immediate revenue to be derived from it.

PENSION APPROPRIATION PASSED.

The Measure Carries $151,000,000—Coining of Seigniorage Under Discussion.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—After five days of debate the pension appropriation bill, carrying $151,000,000, was passed yesterday afternoon without division. At the opening of the session of the house the senate joint resolution for the appointment of a commission to represent the United States at the Antwerp International exposition was agreed to.

Two resolutions of inquiry touching proposals for postal stamps were adopted, and the house then went into committee on the pension appropriation bill was resumed.

Mr. Morse (rep., Mass.) agreed with Mr. Sikes that the commissioner of pensions was guilty not only of bad law, but of bad manners; and Mr. Johnson (rep., Ind.) made a vigorous onslaught on the policy of Secretary Smith and Commissioner Lochren.

Mr. Springer (dem., Ill.) defended the policy of the pension office and declared it had been made a political machine by the republican party.

Mr. Marsh of Illinois replied to Mr. Springer.

O'Neil (dem., Mass.), who was in charge of the bill, closed the debate.

At 3 o'clock the general debate closed under the agreement reached Tuesday, and the bill was read for amendment and debate under the five-minute rule.

Mr. Grosvenor (rep., Ohio) offered an amendment to increase the appropriation for pensions from $150,000,000 to $165,000,000, which was defeated without division.

Gen. Henderson (rep., Iowa), who has been ill for some time, next got the floor. He made a most eloquent speech in favor of liberal pensions.

Mr. Pickler of South Dakota offered an amendment to make the reports of the examining surgeons open to the inspection of the attorneys and applicants. It was agreed to.

Mr. Grow of Pennsylvania offered the last amendment providing that no pension on account of disability in the service should be less than $12 per month. With this amendment as a text he made a brief speech, his first since his return to the house, which he left thirty years ago as speaker. The bill was then reported to the house and passed without division, and the house adjourned.

BRITISH AT BLUEFIELDS

Minister Baker Urges That a United States Vessel Be Sent There.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The department of state has received the first official information of the operations of the British naval forces at Bluefields, near the mouth of the Nicaragua canal. United States Minister Baker at Managua says that the United States consul at San Juan del Norte, Mr. Braid, telegraphs that soldiers from the British warship Cleopatra have been landed at Bluefields and strongly urges that a United States naval vessel be sent there at once. There is no explanation of the reason for the landing of the British forces.

Seigniorage in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—In the senate yesterday Senator Sherman moved that the Bland seigniorage bill be referred to the committee on finance. This precipitated a vigorous discussion, in which Senator Sherman advocated his motion and Senators Hill and Cockrell opposed the reference.

The senate on motion of Mr. Gibson of Maryland, passed the house bill appropriating $15,000 for the rescue of the armament and wreck of the United States ship Kearsarge.

At 2 o'clock the senate—by a vote of 5 yeas to 50 nays—declined to refer the Bland bill. Senators Palmer and Vilas were the only democrats voting yea. The four republicans were Sherman, Morrill, Gallinger and Davis. Cullom was paired with Gray, otherwise he would have voted nay.

Then Mr. Harris of Tennessee moved to take up the seigniorage bill and make it the special order of business, which was agreed to.

Mr. Allison, who was absent while all these events were occurring, learning that the bill had come near to passing during his absence, moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was ordered to be read the third time and engrossed, because, he said, he wanted to offer some amendments.

Mr. Harris replied that he should object to the bill going back to the amendment stage.

Then the bill went over and the senate adjourned after an executive session.

Anti-Option Bill Hearing.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Col. Abner Taylor of Chicago appeared before the Hatch committee to-day and told the members about dealing on the board of trade. The hearing, the last for the opponents of the measure, began with a speech by J. B. Raymond in behalf of the Detroit board of trade, in which he said if the committee would eliminate the word "futures" from the bill no board of trade or produce or cotton exchange would object to it. D. B. Smith, of the Toledo board, followed with the declaration that "no congressional legislation to suppress option dealing would, in the opinion of the great grain-dealing associations of the country, be too severe." Then Arthur Orr, representing the Chicago board of trade, made his address.

The hearing closed and the committee went into executive session. The friends of the bill will be heard either to-day or next week, and will probably have three days. Col. Hatch proposes to modify his bill somewhat.

New Constitution for Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The President yesterday sent to congress the latest correspondence in relation to Hawaii, being three letters with inclosures from Minister Willis, covering the period from Feb. 10 to Feb. 15, inclusive. The important feature of the correspondence is a statement that steps have been taken to provide for a new constitution and a new form of government for Hawaii.

Would Increase Pensions.

READY FOR THE JURY.

Closing the Last Argument in the Great Coughlin Trial.

CHICAGO, March 8.—If Judge Tutthill's court room were thrice its size it could not have accommodated half the people who were desirous of being present yesterday at what was practically the last day's proceedings in the Coughlin trial. Every seat in the court room was occupied when Judge Tutthill took his place on the bench and Mr. Bottum resumed his speech. This morning Judge Tutthill will deliver his charge to the jury, which will then retire to consider its verdict, and Daniel Coughlin's fate will again be in the uncertain balance of the judgment of twelve men. The case has occupied more than four months and has cost the county more than $25,000.

Mr. Bottum's closing speech was remarkably strong. Without the least trace of heat or passion and without any display of feeling against the prisoner, he analyzed the evidence in the case. His argument was cool, logical and convincing. His speech taken as a whole was one of the fairest arguments ever heard in a Cook county court. From certain facts he drew inferences different from those made by the defense, but this was necessary to support the theory of the state.

TRAIN SWEEPED AWAY.

Landslide Carries a Fort Wayne Train Into the Beaver River.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—While engine 277 and five coke cars on the Pittsburgh, Youngstown & Ashtabula branch of the Fort Wayne road were passing near Kenwood, thirty miles west of here, at 3 o'clock this morning a heavy landslide came down the hill and swept the train into the Beaver river. The trainmen narrowly escaped death, but all got off with injuries of a more or less serious nature. Their names were:

ENGINEER M. HUBBARD.
FIREMAN GEORGE JONES.
BRAKEMAN THOMAS REED.

The slide covered the tracks with hundreds of tons of earth and delayed traffic for several hours.

Ice Out of the Platte and Other Rivers.

OMAHA, Neb., March 8.—The ice has gone out of the Platte and other western rivers and no damage has been done. Last year when the ice went out it cost the railroads in Nebraska $200,000 to repair the damage, the Union Pacific alone suffering nearly $50,000 damage. It will be a year Friday since the ice went out of the Platte, sweeping away the Columbus and other bridges, forming gorges, and inundating thousands of acres.

GLADSTONE BETTER
THIS AFTERNOON.DOCTORS REPORT THE AGED
PATIENT STRONGER.

He Suffered a Severe Chill But Considered His Indisposition of So Trifling a Nature That He Objected to Having Medical Attention—Prince of Wales' Cutter Safe.

LONDON, March 8.—Mr. Gladstone is somewhat improved today. His illness results from a severe chill. In spite of his desire that a physician should not be summoned, claiming that his indisposition was only a slight matter, a doctor was summoned and Mr. Gladstone was put under treatment. Later his condition was such that another physician was summoned to attend him and one of the physicians in attendance upon the distinguished patient gave a statement to the newspapers which indicates that Mr. Gladstone's illness is undoubtedly serious.

Little is talked about in public places except Mr. Gladstone and his condition. His name is in everybody's mouth, and nothing could better testify to the affections and respect of the people than the overwhelming interest taken in his well-being at this moment, when he is sorely stricken and lying on a sick bed. The grandest character in modern English history is felt to be passing through a dangerous crisis.

DYNAMITE SCARE IN LONDON.

Suspicious Box Is Found at Bow Street Police Station.

LONDON, March 8.—The police of London in general and of the "E" division in particular are suffering from another dynamite scare. A small tin box, supposed to contain dynamite, was found last night upon one of the window-sills of the historical Bow street police station almost fronting the more famous Bow street police court. The policeman who discovered the box immediately gave the alarm.

The inspectors and superintendent were called and the box was taken to the extremity of the yard of the police station, where it was watered for a long time before anybody cared to subject it to a closer examination. The box was blackened with smoke and fire from burned fuse and there is doubt as to whether an attempt of a very weak nature was made to cause an explosion or whether some practical joker has been giving the London police another bad scare.

FIRED ON THE BRITISH.

Encounter Between Portuguese and Blue Jackets in Africa.

PORT NATAL, March 8.—The Portuguese having obstructed the progress of the British parties engaged in constructing the telegraph line between the British sphere and Tete, on the Zambesi, Lieutenant and Commander George S. Q. The Portuguese fired upon the British landing party and the fire was returned.

The latest advices from the scene of the encounter say that Gov. Quillman, the Portuguese official in charge of the district within the Portuguese boundaries, has been summoned to the spot where the conflict took place and he is said to be on his way there with two Portuguese gunboats and a number of troops.

AT LAST BEGINS.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Breckinridge-Pollard case was commenced this morning. Four jurors were selected, and court then adjourned until to-morrow. Senator Blackburn not only denies that he offered Miss Pollard's attorneys $3,500 as a compromise, but says he is indignant that his name should have been used in such connection. At Lexington fourteen witnesses were examined yesterday, among them William Shope, whose brother was connected with the case by Dr. Lewis' testimony at Danville. ## DAY'S NEWS IN THE LABOR WORLD

Detective Tells of the Plan To Murder Wyant—West Virginia Mining Trouble.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 8.—The details of the plan for killing Wyant and murdering the military were brought to light by a Pinkerton detective who was employed by Wyant. He was ostensibly a mule driver and appeared to be unfriendly to his employer. He at once joined in the proposed strike and when an attack was made on Wyant's tipple, he was with the attacking party. The detective swears the plot was for Kinney to shoot through his pocket at Wyant if he refused to go to Montgomery to be tried. If he consented to be tried there it was then that the plot to kill Wyant and his guards by dynamite was to be put into execution. Seven more rioters have been taken to Fayetteville. The authorities do not regard the trouble as over as another Gatling gun has been taken to Eagle.

Three hundred miners passed Eagle yesterday, going east, and there was a meeting last night. These meetings are all secret and back in the mountains away from the railroad.

Strikers, However, Hold the Fort and Prevent Movement of Trains.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, March 8.—No further rioting occurred yesterday along the lines of the Youngstown street railway, and crowds of expectant people thronged the sidewalks and waited for further scenes of disorder. In the afternoon Manager Anderson took a firm stand on the declaration that he would not recognize the union, despite all efforts of citizens to aid in securing a settlement. A committee of members of the board of commerce met with Manager Anderson, the executive committee of the strikers, and President Malone of Columbus of the National Board of Street Railway Men's organization. No agreement could be reached. The manager left the conference declaring that the employees would go back to work as individuals and at a 10 per cent reduction, something he had not discussed before. The strikers are willing to submit their case to the state board of arbitration and return to work while a decision is being reached, but the proposition is not regarded with favor by the company.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Several representatives of labor organizations were present at the meeting of the house committee on labor yesterday when the bill introduced by Representative Doolittle of Washington to make an executive department of the bureau of labor was considered. Representative Doolittle believed the bureau of labor was unknown to most of the people and its status should be raised to that of an executive department in order that its importance might be realized.

Representative Phillips of Pennsylvania advocated a forum for the settlement of labor troubles which could be appealed to voluntarily, but he denied that such a tribunal could enforce its judgments by compelling men to work on terms unsatisfactory to them. It is said the plan has few supporters among the laboring people.

The directors will publish in the named in Rock county. This will be very handy as it will be a list that can be kept, and at a glance the name and location of any farm in Rock county can be seen. Call or send to Secretary Heimstreet and leave the name. The farmers of Rock county are going to take hold and make the fair a big winner this year. At the farmers' meeting at Milton they elected the following committee to advance the interests of the fair this season:

Messrs. K. Killam, of Milton; J. C.
Kelley, of Rock; A. E. Wilcox, of Harmony; David S. Sayre, of Porter, and William B. Paul, of Milton.

HIS WIFE KNEW A SURE CURE
Hubby's Blueness Was Rather Hard For Her to Appreciate.

The merchant was rather blue, and his wife, noticing it, asked what the matter was.

"Matter enough," he sighed. "I've been looking over my books and I find I've lost money every month for the last year."

"How did you lose it?" she inquired.

"Oh, I don't know," he said wearily shaking his head.

"Nor where?"
Then she thought a minute and remembered what she did when she lost her pocket book, and her face brightened.

"Why don't you advertise for it?"
she asked innocently.

"By George," he exclaimed. "I never thought of that," and the next day he had a big display ad in the paper, and the next, and the next,
and in three months time he was in clover up to his chin.

SURPRISE ON MR. AND MRS. SWAN
Friends Take Possession of Their Home and Pass Merry Hours.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Swan were happily surprised Friday evening at a short time ago failing health led him to rent his farm and come to Edgerton to reside. As he lived, so he did,
though the summons came suddenly,
at a time when free from the heavier
cares and burdens of life, in the quiet of his home and beloved family, it seemed peculiarly desirable to live.
To the memory of a kind husband and father, trustworthy citizen and upright man, we offer our tribute of affectionate regard.

RUN OVER BY A LOADED WAGON
Afton Man Badly Hurt While Teaming
Over Bad Roads.

While W. H. Eldridge was moving a load of goods from the Eddy farm the wagon struck a large stone and let him go headlong seat and all off onto one of the horses. He struck on his back on one of the whiffle trees and as the horse jumped forward it let him down in under the wheel in about ten inches of mud where he was dragged in front of the wheel about four rods before it passed over him.
He can't tell how but the horses were stopped before the wheel passed over him. It is almost a miracle that he was not killed as his head all this while was being dragged in the mud and his legs were on a rise of ground about one foot higher when the wagon passed over him. No one was near when he fell and after some time he got on his wagon again and went on. He was brought to his home later on in a carriage. Although scarcely able to breathe or talk for some time he is now resting quite comfortably.

PASSED THE PORTAL OF DEATH
Jason B. Miller.

Jason B. Miller, whose death was noted in the Gazette last week, was born in Springfield, Vermont, March 14, 1830, and died at Edgerton, Wis., February 22, 1894. He was the sixth of seven children of Levi and Lois (Sherman) Miller, and his was the only death that has occurred of the seven. His early life was spent upon his father's farm in Vermont. In 1849 he came with his parents to Porter township and settled upon the farm which has ever since been his home. He pursued his studies at Milton for a time and engaged in teaching, more or less for several years.
He was united in marriage to Miss Dorcas Barber on October 13, 1860.
Eight children were the fruit of this union, three sons and five daughters, three of whom have preceded him in the event which we call death. Jason Miller became a Christian in his youth at the age of fourteen years. He was united with the Baptist church at Fulton when a young man, and after it was disbanded, became a constant attendant and communicant at the Congregational church. In those early days of youth and young manhood he adopted those principles of integrity and kindness which are the fruits of a true recognition of Christ and the gospel, and which have characterized his whole life. He was throughout all the years a man in whom his fellow men reposed confidence. He served the town of Porter as superintendent of schools, assessor and for nine years was chairman of the board of supervisors. In the care of his aged parents, in the rearing of a large family, in the thrice repeated bereavement of children, each event attended with circumstances of peculiar sadness, and in the varied experiences of life he showed a brave and hopeful spirit. A short time ago failing health led him to rent his farm and come to Edgerton to reside. As he lived, so he did,
though the summons came suddenly,
at a time when free from the heavier
cares and burdens of life, in the quiet

WHO NEEDS THE RIVER MOST?

Suit Similar to the Janesville Case Decided
In the Supreme Court.

Janesville's river suit is paralleled
by a test case in Oconto and the decision of the supreme court affirming the judgment of the lower court in the case of the Falls Manufacturing Company against the Oconto River Improvement Company in which the owners of the pulp mills at Oconto Falls sought to secure a permanent injunction against the use of Oconto river for log driving purposes, is of more than local interest. The court holds that commercial utility is the test of a navigable stream, and that the private right of a riparian owner is subordinate to the public use. The Falls company threatens to take the matter before the state legislature and have the law changed.

DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

An effort is being made to found a

Professor—What a pity that this young lady has both her arms. She would otherwise be a real Venus of Milo.

"Who is the plain, dowdy looking person across the room?" "Oh, she's the writer of the articles on 'How to Make One's Self Beautiful.'"

"Whatever made you make Brackins a present of a pocket-comb? He's as bald as a billiard-ball." "That's just it; I want to make him think I never noticed it."

Mr. Stalate—Here I am left with a fortune to spend. Now, what would you advise me to do first? Miss Spiecy —I should think a trip home would be the very thing.

"Oh, George, darling, I'm afraid someone on the other side of the street saw you kiss me good night." "Is that so? Then let us go into the hall and I will kiss you good night again where no one can see us."

"How do you manage to find your way across the ocean?" said a young lady to a sea captain. "Why, by the compass! The needle always points to the north." Yes, I know. But what if you wish to go south?"

He—This is our last day together.
To-morrow I go away, and shan't see you till we meet in the city again.
But I shall not kiss anybody until I see you. She—Oh, George, for heaven's sake don't get out of practice.

It's a deep mystery—the way the heart of a man turns to one woman

did for Rachel, sooner than have other women for the asking.

A DILEMMA.

My ideal girl has golden hair,
A downcast glance, a modest air.
Her eyes are blue and sweet and shy
She knows no guile nor coquetry.

Her maiden heart, her soul serene,
In all her words and looks are seen.
The more I think of her, the more
All her perfections I adore

If for one hour I could forget
The witch who has me in her net,
Whose dusky hair, whose saucy smile
And gay caprice my heart beguile!

She has each fault which I abhor.
She's not the girl I'm looking for.
Alas! the more I disapprove—
The more I frown, the more I love!

HER LOVE LETTERS.

Jeanie Campbell came back from the tailor's shop where she worked and found a company of boys and girls congregated round the doorstep of the tall tenement house in which she rented one small back room. They were hooting and jeering at a man seated in his shirt sleeves on the doorstep placidly smoking a huge German porcelain pipe. The man did not seem in the least disturbed at their jeers and shrieks, but smoked on with his eyes fixed upon the one strip of sunset sky visible above the grimy roofs. Jeanie pushed her way in.

"What's the matter?"

"Yah, Dutchy! I n't 'e a bloomin' soft? Give a boy a shillin' to go and fetch 'm somethin' to eat and is 'witin' 'ere for 'm! I n't 'e a style? Wonder 'ow long he'll wite!"

"Who is he?"

"A blooming Dutchy! 'E can't speak no English, 'e can't 'as to mike signs—and nobody 'ere can't speak nothink else. I n't 'e a softy?"

The girl paused and looked at the man. There was something in his patient attitude that aroused her pity. Some softer remembrance of the days before she came to this great, wicked London came over her. The man's eyes, so blue, clear and bright, and the healthy tinge of his wholesome face smote upon her with a pang of recollection of the honest Scottish faces she had left with contempt for their content when she had started forth to see life in London.

She went up to the man and signed to him to follow her indoors. She tried to make him understand that he had been robbed. The soft, gentle tones that answered her were quite unintelligible. He smiled, shrugged his shoulders, spread his hands and looked at her with that calm trustfulness one sees in dogs and children.

She smiled, nodded, pointed up the stairs and then ran out of the house. She returned with a loaf of bread and a half pound of sausages for him and roll for herself. She would make that do. He was a stranger, alone and friendless. She put the things in his hand, pointing down the street as if to indicate that she had brought the things from the boy. He seemed to understand, took her hand and raised it to his lips. The action was so simple, so grateful that she felt ashamed and ran up the stairs to her own room.

Her comfortless breakfast of a dry roll the next morning made her a little regretful of her charity the night before. "He must shift for himself, as I have had to do," she thought, and she went out to her day's work.

When she returned in the evening, she found him standing outside his door. He bowed and smiled, opened his door and showed his various purchases on his table. He had evidently found his way round to shops. She went up the stairs, feeling the least little bit disappointed that he did not require her help any more. He seemed different from the jaded, vulgar men and women she came in contact with in her city life. The air of the fields seemed to cling to him still. She thought as she toiled up the weary stairs how sweet the country must be looking now. Was the sun shining on the hills at home and making the waters of the loch sparkle, the bonny hills that she would never see again? Friends were dead, and to a tailor's at 12 shillings a week it was indeed a far cry to Lock Awe.

Something was on her table, a little sketch of a sweep of wide hills, with fir forests clinging to their sides, a little cluster of houses with wide overhanging roofs and shutters to the windows. A figure was standing in the doorway of one of the houses.

"That is his house," said Jeanie to herself. "What a funny thing to do, to give me a picture of it! I wish I could send him back one of Loch Awe and our house up on the braes."

The next day was Sunday. She usually passed the morning in bed, tired out with her week's work. When she came down about the middle of the day, she met him coming in, evidently in his Sunday best. Could he have been to church? Well, it was clear he had not learned the manners of Eureka court yet.

She tried to express her thanks by looks and smiles. He seemed to understand and laughed, and then she felt with a quick touch of dismay that he glanced in surprise at her untidy dress and tousled hair. Jeanie did not "tidy" herself until afterwards; then in an enormous hat and feathers and much bearded head she perambulated the adjacent streets in company with girls of her acquaintance, not yet vicious, only ignorant, vain and craving for a little of that happiness which seems to all girls their birthright.

That same hair was in papers now—she blushed as she recalled the fact—her hands were grimy, her face unwashed. His eyes noted it.

They did not meet again during the week, but next Sunday morning found Jeanie with her hair out of papers and her hands washed. She was loitering at the street corner when he came back in his spruce clothes. She gave him a pert nod. She felt annoyed with him for some unknown reason and that evening made herself as resplendent as possible in her cheap, gaudy finery.

"He shall see that I can be smart, too," she thought, and tossed her head as he appeared.

He stopped, and drawing a notebook from his pocket rapidly sketched a church front upon it. She shook her head. He looked puzzled. Then his quick fingers drew the outside of one of the commonest type of meeting house. She shook her head again and moved off. Somehow she did not like to show him how she spent her Sunday evenings.

The weather became very hot. Jeanie drooped more and more in the unhealthy workroom and stuffy streets. He seemed to notice it, for on one Saturday night she found a drawing of trees and a path and figures walking about, and underneath the figures 2:30. Could he be asking her to go for a walk? She waited in to see.

At 2:30 a knock came at her door. There he was, with his square, ugly, good natured face smiling at her. She felt awkward going down the stairs with him. What could they do during a whole walk if neither could speak to the other?

But that walk did not take place. The smart tie around her neck had been the price of her dinner. She turned faint and reeled, then sat down on the stairs and burst into tears.

She hardly knew if she was vexed or pleased to find herself picked up like a baby and carried up to her own room and laid upon her bed. She sat up and drank some water, while he stood looking perplexedly at her, and she blushed that he should see her untidy, disorderly room.

He went out. In a few minutes she heard her door open and something pushed under the floor. It was a little jug of hot coffee and milk and a plate of German rolls.

The next day another picture was left. It represented a large workshop, with men sitting at tables, all busily engaged over some mechanical work. Underneath was written the figures 30 shillings.

With unskillful fingers she drew an outline of a coat and waistcoat and a needle and thread and posted it at his door as she went out, but she had to come back again, she was so ill, and all day she lay there alone waiting for what was the only friendly signal in the world to her—the scrap of paper of the foreign artist.

She heard it pushed under the door at last and feebly rose and groped for it. Her head was throbbing so that she could scarcely see that it contained a whole line of portraits—an elderly man and woman and younger faces, among which was his own, his family doubtless.

She made a rough outline of her hat, with a sharp oval for a face underneath. She was too ill to get it down to him. She pushed it out and trusted that he would fetch it. She heard him in the morning come up again, and then she heard no more, for the fever seized upon her, and when next she woke to consciousness she was lying on a hospital bed. For days she was too weak to speak or think, but when she was able one of the nurses asked her if she would like to see some papers which had been brought to the hospital for her, and the nurse spread them out before her.

The first was of a man following a stretcher through the streets, then the same man sitting alone in a solitary room with his head bowed upon his hand and weeping; the next, the same man at a door, evidently asking questions of a porter within; the next, the man was beside a bed on which lay a deathlike figure.

"Has he been to see me?"

"Yes; it was when we thought you were dying he came every day, but we could not tell him anything. No one could speak his language, but at last we found it was Wendish, from the borders of Saxony and Bohemia, and one of the doctors here got him a book in it by which he could study English. You will see by the sketches."

The next one represented the man with the book in his hand. The next showed the man in a train, and then on board a steamer, and then in another train.

Jeanie dropped the papers.

"He is gone!" she said, with a little weak cry. "Oh, why have I got any better?"

"There is another picture," said the nurse, and she unrolled it for the trembling girl.

The man had arrived at the little village Jeanie remembered in the first sketch; then the interior of a house was shown; a coffin lay in the middle of the room; an old woman, two girls and three men knelt around it.

"His father is dead," said Jeanie. And she turned to the next. The man was at the hospital door.

"Oh, he is coming back!" she cried.

"See, this is the last," said the nurse, and as she held it up she laughed. It was the man on one knee before a girl—Jeanie in her outrageous hat—but there was in a little sketch up in the right hand corner, as if it was yet in the distance, the same little village with the pine forests around, the two figures—the man and Jeanie—walking arm in arm up the village street. The nurse held her sides for laughing.

"It's the funniest thing I ever saw in my life!" she said.

Jeanie gathered her papers together with some dignity.

"I don't call it funny," she said. "I think it was just the nicest thing that ever was done to any girl."

"My loofe!" said a voice at her side. And there was the man. Jeanie gave a little cry.

"My loofe!" said the man again. "It is my first English to you, and it will be my last. My loofe!" And Jeanie, with all the dreams of her girlhood back upon her, put her arms round his neck, and sobbing said, "And I don't even know your name, but I don't care for anything in the world but you."—New York Tribune.

A Victim of His Own Heroism.

I understand Johnson jumped off a Fulton street ferryboat to save a woman who fell into the water.

"He did; but don't mention it to him."

"Why?"

"Because the woman clutched him and he was nearly drowned."

"How was he saved?"

"She tucked him under her arm and swam with him to Staten island. It was Madame De Jasnetto, of the natatorium, advertising herself."—Truth.

Life or Death?

It is of vital importance that it should be understood by persons whose kidneys are inactive that this condition of things is finally indicative of a state of the organs where life hangs in the balance. Bright's disease, diabetes, albuminuria are all diseases of a very obstinate character in their mature stage, and all have a fatal tendency. They often baffie the most practiced medical skill, and the most approved remedies of materia medica. But opposed at the outset—that is to say, when the kidneys begin to discharge their function, treated with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the dangerous tendency is checked. Very useful, also, is this household medicine for those ailments of common occurrence, constipation, dyspepsia, peptic and nervousness. It is a safeguard against malaria and averts chronic rheumatism.

Complication of Diseases.

NO CHANGE IN JUDGES.

It was hoped that the judicial contest in this district could be kept out of politics but this seems impossible. The same democratic managers who have had charge of campaigns in Rock county, for years are entering actively into Mr. Smith's canvass and are urging his election solely on the ground of party policy. This argument they use with democrats. When approaching republicans the "non-partisan" plea is brought forth. The idea seems to be that by getting out a full democratic vote Mr. Smith can be elected. Only a small proportion of voters usually pay any attention to a judicial ticket. The active but quiet democratic canvass is expected to insure that republicans furnish most of the stay-at-homes this year.

The district cannot afford to have the scale turned by any such device. The campaign has progressed far enough to show that the people here no less than in Green and Jefferson counties are thoroughly satisfied with Judge Bennett's work. It is a significant comment on his learning and judicial fairness that the percentage of cases reversed by the supreme court is lower in his circuit than in any other in Wisconsin. As for his age nobody who sees him leaving the court after a hard day's work, sturdy, alert, straight as a young pine tree, will question that there are many years of valuable service before him. As a lawyer remarked after hearing his able review of law and evidence in the Ashton case: "Not one of the attorneys who say that Judge Bennett is too old could have written such a charge as that."

If experience counts in any position it must in that of judge. By all ordinary standards Judge Bennett has just reached the point where his value to the people of his circuit is greatest. Very short sighted would be the policy that called for a change. Only through the failure of Rock county people to vote will such a change be possible.

$300,000,000 has been lost by the farmers by the fall in the price of wheat, corn, oats and potatoes during the past twelve months. Rock county shared in the loss and democratic votes in this county will be scarce hereafter.

Speaker Crisp would unquestionably be grateful for a recipe that would keep a quorum on the floor of the house without counting non-voters, but it is not probable that he will ever have one.

The spectacle of a campaign carried on against the British House of Lords by the liberal party under a leadership of a member of the House of Lords promises to be interesting, and may be instructive.

If anyone doubts the possibility of the tail wagging the dog they should be referred to the feat of the ten democratic senators who have compelled thirty-four democratic senators to give in to them.

The administration is doing its level best to make up a considerable part of that estimated deficiency of $78,000,000 by denying applications for pensions that should be granted.

The country rejoices to learn that Congressman Wilson is out of danger, just as it rejoices because the tariff bill with which his name is connected is in danger.

HON. EX-SPEAKER NOYES.

OUR STATESMAN CURED BY DR. GREENE'S NERVURA.

The Great Senator and Representative Recommends Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy to the Weak, Nervous and Ailing. It is the Best Spring Medicine to Take.

PROBABLY more depends upon the character of the recommendation than on anything else. If a person you personally know tells you that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will cure you because it cured him, you take his word. Here is Massachusetts' greatest and foremost statesman whom all our readers know, Hon. Ex-Speaker Noyes, of the house of representatives, who tells you what this wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, has done for him, and advises you to take it and get well, if you are sick, weak, nervous, sleepless, debilitated or run down in health. He assures you that it cured him and he is positive that it will cure you.

HON. EX-SPEAKER CHARLES J. NOYES.

The newspapers say of Hon. Mr. Noyes: "No citizen of Boston stands higher in public estimation than he. A lawyer of the greatest eminence and highest ability, he is a born leader of men. In public life for nearly a century, he is a representative citizen, one of the most popular and best known men in the United States. He was elected a senator and was eight times returned to the house of representatives. It shows in what high esteem he is held by the people that he was five different years elected speaker of the house of representatives. Governor Long made him a Justice, knowing that he is of unquestionable integrity, superior ability and great conscientiousness. A man of majestic brain, he is a great statesman and has few equals as an orator. He was at one time a candidate for lieutenant governor and he nominated Alger for president, in the national convention."

Such is the eminence and standing of the gentleman who writes the following for the public welfare: "After having used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and during my convalescence from a severe rheumatism, and experiencing its very beneficial results in accelerating my recovery, by imparting a healthy tone to my whole over-wrought nervous system, I write that others needing a like restorative may have a like advantage."

"It seems to me nothing could have contributed so much to invigorate and recreate as it were, my severely taxed nerves and debilitated vitality as did this excellent remedy. And to all needing some invigorating and permanent restorative to mind and body over-burdened in business or other cases, I desire to offer my testimony in behalf of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy as the very best medicine within my knowledge or observation. I am willing that the best possible use should be made of this note to bring the matter to the attention of others suffering as I was."

CHARLES J. NOYES.

Equitable Building, Boston, Mass. Hon. Ex-Speaker Noyes is and always will be a boon to his fellow men, and in thus giving his advice to the suffering, and the weight of his high standing and eminent reputation to his endorsement of the wonderful curative virtues of the great medical discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, he is proving himself a benefactor to those who are sick, weak, nervous and ailing. It is a fact that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cures. The sick need it to make them well. Those who do not call themselves exactly sick, but who are ailing, out of order and do not feel just right, should take it, for it will put them in perfect health and strength. Everybody needs it now when a spring medicine is necessary to maintain health. It is the best spring medicine possible to take.

Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th Street, New York City, its discoverer, is our most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

SHE LOVES THE OCEAN.

Helen Keller, Deaf, Dumb and Blind, a Descriptive Writer.

The resources and possibilities of modern methods of intellectual training have found another marvelous instance in the person of Helen Keller, an instance fully as wonderful and conclusive as that furnished by the famous Laura Bridgman. The interesting child is now about 14 years old. She became deaf, dumb and blind in infancy, and yet she has been educated up to such a point that she was enabled, at 12 years of age, to write, by means of her own typewriter, a sketch of her having been led forth from darkness into the light of knowledge. Her sketch is beautifully composed, and is said by the editor of the paper in which the composition has been published to have been free from errors of spelling and the like.

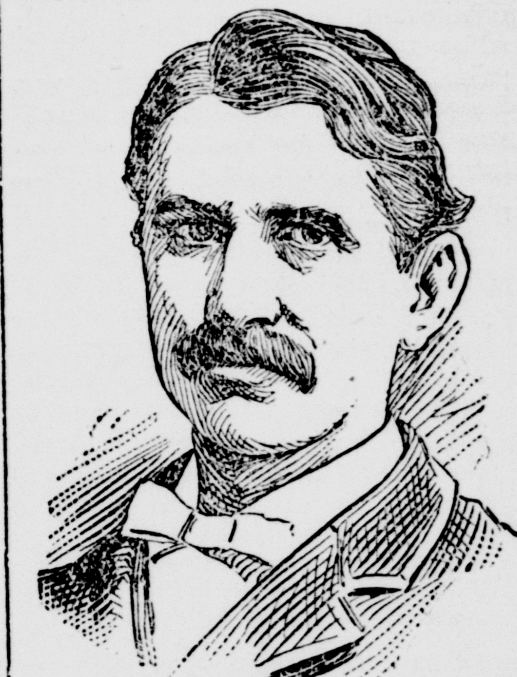

HELEN KELLER.

In view of the child's dreadful afflictions, the mere mechanical work of the achievement is remarkable enough; but when to this is added a distinctly fine quality of literary skill, the mental attainments acquired by the girl are quite amazing. We can not resist

S. L. JAMES STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

SUFFERED A STROKE WHILE AT A CHURCH SUPPER.

As He Chatted With Friends in the All Souls Parlor He Suddenly Fainted and Was Found to Be in Serious Condition—Physicians Are Alarmed.

Treasurer S. L. James, of the Rock county fair association, is confined to his home, 201 South Jackson street, helpless from a severe stroke of paralysis.

Mr. James, while not being in robust health, was out all day yesterday as usual. He went to All Souls church and took supper with a number of friends and agreed to pass the evening with E. B. Heimstreet. Before leaving the table Mr. Heimstreet noticed that Mr. James was acting unusually and went to him. He soon discovered the cause and at once made arrangements to take him home, where he was attended by Dr. Robinson. Mr. James appears to have no control over his limbs, and he is unable to talk except in disconnected words. Mr. Heimstreet remained with him all night. Today the sick man's condition is unchanged, and it is feared his case is more serious than first supposed, he being so well advanced in years.

HOW THE NIGHT WAS MADE GLAD.

Several Entertainments About Town Last Evening—Two Church Suppers.

Two church suppers that vied with each other in attractiveness were served last night. Baked beans and brown bread reigned at the Congregational church, where visitors were regaled with an old-fashioned New England spread. At All Souls church an encouraging number testified to the merits of latter day viands including such vanities as salads, lemon jelly and fanciful cakes.

Members of W. H. Sargent Relief Corps, No. 21, entertained their friends in different fashion. They let them dance to Johnny Smith's music and enjoy light refreshments at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Mattie Parker and Miss Lou Fenton gave select readings. Mrs. Parker gave "The Smack at School," and Miss Fenton "In the Catacombs," both being compelled to respond to recalls.

Millinery and Ladies Furnishing Goods.

Mrs. Woodstock, the leading milliner and her head trimmer, Miss Russell, have gone to purchase spring millinery for Janesville. Mrs. Woodstock's business has grown to such an extent that she is compelled to have more room, consequently she has had the basement of her store room fitted up in elegant shape, a front entrance made from the street, and she will stock it with one of the handsomest stocks of ladies furnishing goods of all kinds ever shown in any city. While east she will purchase this stock which will consist of a full line of ladies goods, infants and childrens wear, fancy linens and fancy ornaments for the ladies, in fact Mrs. Woodstock's place will present a veritable ladies bazaar this spring. In connection with the above line she will put in a much larger and finer stock of millinery than ever before. She has engaged Willard Robinson, a thorough furnishing goods man, who will have charge of her ladies furnishing department. Watch these columns for Mrs. Woodstock's grand spring opening which will occur as soon as she returns from the eastern markets.

"The Train Wreckers."

The Rice Wolford & Sheridan Company who open a three night engagement at the Myers Grand tonight is the only company on the road playing at popular prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents that produce scenic melo-dramas. The reason there is no other company in this field is that it is very expensive not only for the scenery but royalty for the plays and the expense of carrying men to handle the scenery. "The Train Wreckers" is a play of the same class as "Fast Mail," "Pay Train," etc., with realistic railroad effects, the explosion of the bridge, the railroad office, New York illuminated, etc. All scenery used is brand new and attractive and a first class performance is assured.

WHY NOT ALL DANCE AT THE ASYLUM?

BIG DEDICATORY PARTY IS THE SUGGESTION.

New Buildings Will Be Ready Early Next Month as Contractor Nowlan Has Only a Little More Carpenter Work to Do—Board Committee Make an Inspection.

The building committee of the county insane asylum visited the new building yesterday afternoon. Contractor Nowlan will complete his contract in a few days, when the entire work will be ready for acceptance by the county.

"It is the intention to occupy the new building early in April," said County Clerk McIntyre this afternoon. "I think the moving will begin the first of April if the weather and the roads are all right."

It seems no more than proper that there be a "house warming" at the handsome new buildings before they are put into use. Four hundred people attended a dedication party at the new Oshkosh asylum a few weeks ago. A similar affair might well be given here, the county being at no expense in the matter and all the responsibility resting on an independent committee.

STOLE HENS BY THE WHOLESALE

George W. Beneke Not Content To Ravage Near-By Chicken Coops.

George W. Beneke's hen case this morning drew a crowd. Beneke is charged with stealing chickens, the property of J. A. Decker, Milton avenue. A number of witnesses were sworn on the part of the state, nearly all of whom testified to having chickens stolen, and afterwards finding some of the fowls in Beneke's possession or at his home. Beneke, it appears, had a horse and wagon, and his operations were not confined to his close neighbors' hen coops, but he would drive some distance to make big hauls as in the case of the Decker henner.

The examination was concluded this afternoon and the court held Beneke for trial on March 15. In default of $450 bail, the defendant was sent down to Sheriff Bear's keeping.

CHASE OVER HILLS FOR A BANDIT BOLD.

Humors of the Chase For Outlaw Chris Evans.

HE IS SAID TO BE A FATALIST.

The Outlaw's Daughter Explains His Peculiar Doctrines—The Antecedents of Ed Morrell—How the Mountaineers Lead the Officers on Wild Goose Chases.

The pursuit of the outlaw Chris Evans and his companion, Ed Morrell, who escaped from the Visalia jail a few months ago, keeps the California deputy sheriffs busy and furnishes a perennial fund of amusement for the California citizens. Of course there are a good many sober citizens who do not feel disposed to laugh when the desperadoes defy the law and bite their thumbs at the emissaries thereof, but Chris Evans has a number of old friends in the Fresno foothills who applaud his actions and do not hesitate to put his pursuers on the wrong scent. This is an occupation which affords infinite delight to the old settlers, and it is discharged with an adroit dissimulation that challenges detection.

One of Evans' ablest and most deceptive allies is old Newt Demasters, and, as the San Francisco Examiner remarks, somehow a sheriff seldom chases a criminal into the mountains of the Fresno country without running against the Demasters, though, as old Newt Demasters says plaintively, "I can't see why them fellers alluz comes this way."

Sheriff Scott and his men dropped into Pine Flat a few weeks ago in search of Evans and Morrell. They had a notion that the Demasters' demesne was a good place to hunt for fugitive bandits, and they did not care to have the folks know they were there. Consequently, when word was telephoned up the valley that Newt was driving up from Centerville, the sheriff's buggy and his men's horses disappeared across an arroyo and behind a blue brush thicket and did not emerge until the old man's buggy to pass from sight over the next hill.

Newt stopped at Pine Flat to chat with his neighbors. Chris Evans and his young companion had spent a day around his place. "Why, them desperadoes just met me a piece the other side of Jarrett's, and they made me light and walk while they went on to ride and tie clear up to my place. I sent 'em down to Bennett's, 'cause I knew there were three men down there with guns, and I thought they'd take 'em. And do you know, them fellers at Bennett's never did nothin but let Evans go just as he pleased?"

"It's no use talkin," continued Old Newt, "it won't do to have such men runnin' round, terrifyin' and a-scarin' us people. I'm afraid to talk about 'em. I killed Chris' partner in a fight nigh on 20 years ago, and I'm scared he'll come back and murder me if he hears I've been talkin about him. He says to me, says he, when he went away: 'Newt, do you see that pile of rocks on the off side of yo' do'. Well, it 'udn't be much of a trick to call a man out and kill him from there.' So I aren't talkin."

The sheriff and his men came out from the brush well pleased to have escaped Demasters' eye, and Old Newt drove on his way. When he got home, he mentioned that a buggy and eight men on horseback had come into the Kings river country, "one of them valley teams," he said contemptuously.

Old Newt has lived a long time in the mountains and knows the hills and trails so well that they talk to him and tell him all they know. If he had been pushed to it, he could have told just about how far the strangers had come, and more than that, he could tell if any one of them passed on any path around there. When he stopped and talked and listened interestedly to their ostentatious questions as to the whereabouts of the posse, he knew that Scott's men had been there and were most likely within hearing of his voice, for no secret was ever intrusted to a road that Newt Demasters could not get from it.

One of Newt's boys took a long ride that day, and while he was gone the old mountaineer received Sheriff Scott and listened to the reasons why he should be truthful with the officers of the law and not harbor dangerous criminals like Chris Evans, and when sharp faced Ed returned the old man had a change of heart and came over to the sheriff's side. He would help him to catch Chris Evans. He knew, of course, that if he did point out the bandit's hiding place and the sheriff did not get him the vengeance Evans would come down on him and punish him with death for his disloyalty, but now he was on the side of law and government, and he would risk it.

"I wouldn't go up there for a million dollars," said Old Newt, "but one of my boys'll take you right to 'em. I'm sorry for his widow that's to be and for the children, but I'm a man that allers tries to do his duty." Then Old Newt told the sheriff that he would have given up the information long before but he lacked the heart to send him up to certain death. "You'd 'a' been killed shore," said Newt, "for Evans told me he'd pick you out first of all."

The sheriff took Newt at his word, and in the dusk of evening his light complexioned, loose jointed, blond mustached son Marsh came over to lead the posse to where Evans and Morrell were sleeping in fancied security.

Marsh was not talkative, but as he stood with the rain trickling through down on his face he told of a day or two spent in their hog camp miles back in the hills with the fugitives. He said that when the two men went away they confided to him that they were going to visit an old miner friend of Chris' the other side of Secate mountain, and the outlaw learned from him which trail to take to get there without passing the Indian camp or Jack Story's cabin or any place where pursuers could get track of them.

In the darkness the man hunters started out, with Marsh slouching along at their head, carrying a rifle like the others. He did not encourage conversation, but led them upward through the rain and into the snow. It was heart-breaking work, and just before dawn, when they reached the summit, the men were nearly dead with cold and fatigue.

Of course Evans was not at the miner's cabin. He never had been. Marsh Demasters offered no explanation except "he said he was comin here," and he led the disgusted posse back to the valley.

It came out afterward that about the time the posse started from the valley for the hog ranch Evans and Morrell left the hog camp for the valley, crossed Kings river, and while their hunters struggled up the long snowy slope in one direction they fared easily along in the opposite. It may be that their leaving just at that time was providential, but there was another Demasters unaccounted for during those hours. Sharp featured Edward, Marsh's younger brother, took a long ride from the Demasters place that night.

When the posse came back to Pine Flat, old Newt was plowing his door yard field. He came down to the brush fence, his sharp old face beaming with kindness and satisfaction.

"Hello!" he shouted. "You boys got them elusive desperadoes?"

The Demasters made no explanations, though old Newt shook his head and said there was something wrong when "them desperadoes stood off good men that way."

Presently the third Demasters was converted to the side of law and order. He was guiding the posse up Kings river and over to a mountain cabin near which suspicious tracks had been found. The posse had already tramped and clambered over half a dozen rocky miles. Ed Demasters was apart with one of the deputies. When they were hidden by an intervening hill from the rest, Ed sat on a boulder and relieved himself. He said he was tired of this sort of thing; that he had been misleading the officers and taking them away from Evans' real trail, as his brother and father had done. He was not going to do it any more.

"They ain't up in this country at all," said Edward solemnly. "I took 'em 'cross the river last Thursday, and they're down there near Dunlap living in a camp that was fixed for them before they broke out of jail."

When he made his confession, the posse faced about, forded the river and struck out for the canyon that runs into Ship's valley.

Marsh and Ed Demasters, where Evans and Morrell ought to have been encamped. They surrounded the rocky gulch by the Dunlaps schoolhouse and searched it from end to end. The fugitives were not there. There was nothing to show that they had ever been there, and Ed dropped his pale blue eyes before the sheriff's indignant glare and remarked that he "thought they were there, shore."

When the posse went back to town baffled and weary, Ed and Marsh came also, and blandly at the sheriff's office asked for and received the pay that was due them for guiding the posse over trails Evans had never traveled, to cabins he never saw, over rivers he never forded and away from every chance they might have had to capture or kill the outlaws.

Speaking to a Chronicle reporter in San Francisco, Mrs. Evans, wife of the outlaw, said that her husband was a fatalist. He believed that what was to be would be, and nothing could prevent it, and that for this reason the efforts of Gard and the men who have been following him did not bother him. He looked upon it with entire serenity.

Eva Evans, the daughter, said: "I think papa will be equal to them and to anything that is done. He is a fatalist. We all are, even down to the children, except the little ones, who are not old enough yet to think about such things, and my mother. I guess she is not a fatalist."

"Now, there is Morrell. I never knew him, never set eyes on him, nor did any of the family. Not one of us knew him. Yet right at the moment when one was needed this man rose up. The whole affair is a mystery and demonstrates, as I said just now, the doctrine of fatalism. Nobody knew where he came from or why he happened to be at Fresno, but at the moment he was there. Since then I have learned that his home was formerly in Philadelphia, and that he has a divorced wife and three children there. This Miss Kincaid of Fresno, too, about whom there is so much in the papers, is not Miss Kincaid, but Mrs. Morrell. She used to be Miss Kincaid, but she and Morrell were married in Fresno several months ago. Since Morrell ran away with papa she will not admit the marriage. That is the story they tell me."

A Growsome Restaurant.

In Brussels there is now a restaurant entitled the Cafe de la Mort, the walls of the subterranean chamber being hung with paintings of skulls, skeletons and crossbones. The chairs are stools, the tables coffins, and the beverage, which costs 6 cents a glass, is called "microbes." A performance takes place nightly in an adjoining vault. On the black curtain rising, a man is disclosed standing upright in a coffin. As the assemblage watches, his white bones are gradually seen to shine forth through his clothes until he becomes a grisly skeleton. A death certificate is then presented to the principal actor in this optical illusion, and the performance closes.

A Whimsical Chap.

Once tried to quote Fulver (was it Bulwer?) and said, "Great aches from little toe corns grow," and altho' he didn't exactly quote he got there, got there as it were, with both feet, at least with a part of both.

"To be or not to be," said Shakespeare, (or Bacon?) and he toe, may not be far off. Foot it over hill and dale, 'til you are weary and foot sore, and you cannot find such bargains as we offer in building sites. Homesites, for on these and the prices of the same and terms, too, we always did "use the mark." For some reason we are this spring getting into the goods, the prices and the terms with both feet. And so, with Hamlet we soliloquize: "The wonder grows", why people are not "up in arms" when the prices we quote are looked into. You can get a home, if you wish, so long as we are in the business; hard times don't count. If you are not earning so much money as you did last year, we will meet you; it don't matter.

Homesites and Homes are our fad; to help people get 'em is what we are on earth for, this time.

The main secret, we suppose, why we always get the major part of the real estate trade going, is that we own a large part of the property that we offer. Another part of the secret is, we deal every time so that our customer sends to us his or her friend when they want to deal.

Our beginnings here were not large, but so true it is that "Great oaks from little acorns grow," that the "birds of the air" have their homes,—build their nests,—in the result of our grain of mustard seed. Come over and roost with us. Yours very truly,

===== A "PROFIT" IS NOT WITHOUT HONOR. =====

Save . in . His . Own . Country.

If we had prophesied one year ago that the purchasing public of this city and county would have had the opportunity that now presents itself to buy high class clothing at the prices we are naming, we would have been considered a false "profit" indeed.
